

Starfighter - Seczak Industries 'Apanith'

Designed 28 years ago, the Apanith is a reliable craft that has been reworked a couple times across it's lifespan.

The current model, the Apanith-C, is a primary dogfighter, intended to fight off other Starfighters and some of the less dangerous Small Craft.

all things considered, the Apanith is a great all-rounder in the modern battlefield.

Basic Weapons Outfit:

Seczak Industries recommends to outfit the Apanith-C with Gauss Weapons for best performance.

Starfighter - Hephaestus Military Industries 'Scion-III'

Brought to you by the premiere greek coalition military supplier, Hephaestus Military Industries, the Scion-III promises to be a menace on the battlefield, tearing enemies apart with a high-tech loadout that brings to bear enough weapons to make your enemies curse the day they first met you.

Though the Scion-III is powerful, it has a couple well-known negatives any buyer should be aware of: It's sensors-suite relies primarily on existing information and works only at full capacity, if a powerful input-stream of sensor-date is pre-existing.

Another negative is the lack of a proper afterburner in the Scion-III, something which can make dogfighting somewhat more dangerous.

The role the Scion-III takes on the battlefield is straddling the line between Tactical Bomber and Starfighter.
